Manager
in Training

Will McPharlin

Will McPharlin hails from Balaklava. He has spent 10 years in the hay export business with Balco where he worked his way through the levels to become a supervisor. The past two years he has worked for Thomas Foods International at Murray Bridge and Lobethal as a maintenance planner and assistant purchasing officer. Will's position within YP AG is as manager in training at the Maitland branch. He looks forward to meeting new people and developing his skills. What Will has enjoyed the most about YP AG so far is the commitment to helping one another and the organisation's customers, and being accepted as part of the YP AG family.

Research
Technician

Alex Burbury

Alex Burbury grew up on family farm in Tasmania, and studied at University of Tasmania. He has worked in crop research in Canada and across Australia, spent some time coaching cricket in South Africa, and his previous role was as a research agronomist for the Omega 3 canola project at Nuseed in Horsham. Alex has been employed by YP AG as a research technician in the research and development side of the company. He looks forward to providing a professional and dedicated level of service to the YP AG team and its client base by providing accurate and timely data from trial sites.

Logistics

Des Elson

Des Elson is originally from Eyre Peninsula and has mostly lived in country areas, including Bute. He has previously worked in rural merchandise, and been a small business owner. Des is working in sales and logistics with YP AG and looks forward to forming good relationships with customers and team members at YP AG.

Nicole Hodgins

Customer service representative Nicole Hodgins has a passion for agronomy and will work closely with Kara Johnson, based out of YP AG Curramulka. She has worked on the West Coast previously, and at Pringles Crouch for about three years managing a small parts department. Nicole moved back here to be closer to her family, and looks forward to continuing her love of the beach and netball. She is excited to start this new chapter in life and looks forward to meeting the whole team at YP AG and its customers.

Tyra Wigzell

Tyra is originally from Kadina, finishing her schooling at Kadina Memorial School in 2016. She has previously worked at a grain buying and exporting company ending up in export and logistics there for the past two years. Her position as customer service representative at YP AG Kadina means she enjoys a variety of jobs and meeting new people each day. She plays netball and basketball for Bute, coaching basketball locally, at association level and for SA Country. Tyra looks forward to gaining more experience within the agriculture industry, which is so important in our local community.

Aniek Janssen

Aniek came to Australia six years ago, ending up on the Yorke Peninsula. She will be based at YP AG Yorketown as a customer service representative. She has worked on a cattle station in Queensland and also in rural agribusiness there. Aniek can't wait to explore YP's coastlines even further and support local sports teams. She also enjoys cooking and gardening, so please make yourself known to Aniek when calling through the Yorketown store.
